A purple rectangular graphic with a white circular icon at the top center containing a paint palette. The word 'IMPRESSIONISM' is written in large white capital letters. Below it, white text reads 'Bright colours, bold brushstrokes and a rebellious spirit! Find out more about the impressionist painters'. In the center is a white-bordered video player showing a painting of a man with a long white beard and a small hat, standing in a field of tall grass. White text at the bottom of the video frame reads 'This is Claude Monet, one of the most famous impressionist painters'. At the bottom of the purple graphic, the text 'WHY IS IT CALLED IMPRESSIONISM?' is written in white capital letters. The purple background is decorated with small teal handprints.
